

Defensive Driving at Rockland County Libraries or Learning Centers

CoVid-19 update:

There are currently no known classroom defensive driving classes being held in Rockland County. However, plans are afoot at most local public libraries to begin programing onsite in the fall or 2021 (unless there is a resurgence of the virus).

Blauvelt Free Library will announce an October class in our fall newsletter, due out over Labor Day.

The most active Defensive Driving instructor in the county, Arthur Aldrich passed in the spring or 2021, leaving two others to pick up the mantle of holding classes at Rockland Libraries. You can contact them directly to learn of any programs they are scheduling.
